

Members of the Weimar Republic Reichstag,

Our Republic is in a dire situation. The international community has turned their backs on us. We have been excluded from the League of Nations; foreign nations have very little faith on our ability to pay our debts, and trade is at an all-time low. Our economy is in complete shambles. In addition to the outrageous reparations we are obligated to pay, our economy is facing extreme hyperinflation, a crushing national debt, and vast infrastructure damage. We have riots, our people are struggling with poverty and homelessness, and unless we provide some relief soon, this is the end of the German State.

Although you all represent different political parties, different ideologies, and different backgrounds, you have been chosen to represent the people, to fix our state, and to put us in the best position to reassert our nation into world affairs. Your varied backgrounds and beliefs can either be used to gridlock and doom the Republic, or to diversify the avenues through which you work to fix the Weimar Republic. I have faith that you will use every asset available to you to work together and create lasting solutions to our Nation's problems.

This committee is going to span several presidential elections, and you will therefore serve under several presidents, with different beliefs based on which political party they represent. As members of the five main political parties in the Republic at this time, your party is not only working in the committee to lead the Republic, but you must also work simultaneously to increase the power of your party. If the president is a member of your party, I can only imagine that your party will enjoy less governmental scrutiny.

Please keep in mind that although initially the main issues facing our nation are domestic, the Republic does not exist in a vacuum. Situations and problems will arise as time passes, and you will want to address them all to some extent, or they are bound to get worse. You must both continue to address chronic issues facing the Republic, while also making sure you have the resources to devote to issues that may arise.

Our Republic is in your hands. Good luck Gentlemen,
Chancellor of the German State
